

MAXIMUM...

April 20, 2010 – Issue 51

MAXFACT #45

“How far you go in life depends on you being tender with the young, compassionate with the aged, sympathetic with the striving, and tolerant of the weak and the strong. Because someday in life, you will have been all of these.”

– George Washington Carver

It gets lonely at the top...when you stop doing the behaviors that got you there. Caring about others is never an unfashionable thing to do. Be a humble boss. In fact, lose the term “boss” and just be a humble leader.

If you have questions or comments about today's Training message, please contact us at...

www.maximumbizconsult.com

(717) 755-5419

MAXIMUM
Business Consulting, LLC
a mentor capital firm

...TRAINING

Ok, so you're the boss. Does that mean you're now exempt from improving yourself?

Of course not! In fact, being the boss actually REQUIRES that you continue to push yourself to new levels. Why? Because you have a group of eager folks behind you who want to learn. You have another group who genuinely look to you for leadership and role modeling.

Don't short-change yourself into thinking that you're smart enough. Learning truly never ends. Each time you attend a seminar, visit another business, have lunch with a colleague, or consult with a third-party specialist, your education antenna should be up.

Most importantly, once you're exposed to new things, have the courage to discuss and then implement them.

Ponder This...

Do I care enough to keep learning?

We invite you to share this memo with a friend.